

“Deep Democracy is our sense that the world is here to help us to become our entire selves, and that we are here to help the world become whole.”

— Arnold Mindell

World Work 2011 is hosted by the Research Society for Process-Oriented Psychology, Inc. (RSPOP), a nonprofit organization, founded 1987, in Denver, Colorado, to promote, through research and education, greater understanding of process-oriented psychology. We support the vision of The Global Process Institute (GPI), founded in 1989, as an international consortium of practitioners trained in Process Work working around the world as conflict facilitators, peace builders, organizational consultants, and therapists.

The Global Process Institute presents an International Conference on environmental, social and political issues:

World work 2011

April 13 - 19, Denver, Colorado, usa

Tracking the Dreaming Landscape beyond the Continental Divide: A practice in Deep Democracy

Conference Format

Worldwork uses the awareness tools of Deep Democracy for small or large group conflicts, team building, community crisis intervention and facilitation of forums for human rights dialogue and includes the following:

- Training in facilitating large groups focusing on environmental, social and political issues
- Small group practice to process and refine skills brought forward from large-group interaction
- Theoretical training in Process Work and Deep Democracy skills
- Specific training exercises to incorporate skills
- Private sessions available with Worldwork staff member
- Social awareness and educational groups

Please Contribute to the Scholarship Fund

The Worldwork seminar offers as many scholarships as it can and appreciates the many people who contribute funds to help. If you feel you can afford to make a tax-deductible contribution, you will help Worldwork become accessible to a wider, more diverse pool of applicants.

Please make checks payable to and send to:
"Scholarship Fund"
